WARRANTS ISSUED FOR ELLENVILLE'S POLICE CHIEF AND THE KUHLMANNS

Nicholson Charged With Interfering With Federal Officers and Brewers With Assaulting Them—Conklin Free on $1,000 Bond—Truck and Beer Taken to New York.

The Newburgh News Thursday
id:
Their action in preventing three deral agents from inspecting the Ellenville Brewery, at an early hour ednesday morning, and in other-se interfering with those officials in discharge of their duty, may se John Kuhlmann (sometimes roneously called Coleman), his sons alter and Homer, and George icholson, chief of the Ellenville lice force, considerable trouble and expenditure of considerable oney.
The elder Kuhlmann ran the llenville Brewery several years be-re the advent of prohibiton, and s conducted it since the enactment the Volstead law, under a permit llowing him to manufacture cereal verages, the place being at all mes subject to inspection by govern-ent representatives.
As a result of the occurence Wedsday, an equity action will be ought for a decree declaring the emises maintained as a nuisance, d restraining him by injunction om the manufacture of beer in olation of the law. A separate oceeding will be instituted to reke his permit for the making of real beverages.
In addition, Kuhlmann and his sons e prosecution for assault and for terfering with officers in making an rest. Warrants against them have en issued by United States Commisoner Edward J. Collins of this city, complaints sworn out and supportaffidavits subscribed to by the deral men. Commissioner Collins
s also issued a warrant for the ar-st of Chief of Police Nicholson on harge of interfering with, opposing d impeding government agents in e discharge of their duty, and pre-nting them from arresting the hlmanns for assault.
The trouble in the brewery ocrred between 6 and 7 o'clock, when e agents, who had gone there to ke an inspection, undertook to ke a Garford motor truck belong-to the concern on which had been ded ten barrels of beer which the nts allege contained four per cent cohol. George Conklin of Napah, driver of the truck, said he was ut to take the ten barrels to the ttling plant of the works, but the deral men had reason to believe its tended destination was elsewhere.
any rate, Conklin had no legal ht to be moving four per cent beer barrels, even to the bottling plant, there was available in the bottling nt no process by which the coholic content of the beer could reduced.
All three of the Kuhlmann's, father d sons, remonstrated against the ial of the agents to examine or ize the beer or arrest the driver.
ey directed Conklin to return the er to the main brewery building.
d he started to obey, using force recover possession of the truck.
e agents called in Chief of Police cholson to assist in overcoming sistance and making arrests, but t official, according to the agents, epted the Kuhlmanns' version of e situation, ordered the federal n off the premises, demanded that ey surrender the truck and the beer d threatened them with arrest for spass and disorderly conduct.
During the heat of the argument ere was a violent altercation be-een Homer Kuhlmann and Federal ent Guttman in which blows were changed. Guttman showed the ef-cts of the mauling after he had ached Newburgh. There were cuts his neck, his face was scratched, d his left hand was bruised and ollen. A physician whom he conlted applied iodine liberally.
Conklin who had been taken into stody on a charge of unlawfully nsporting beer, accompanied the deral men on the truck to New-rgh, and was arraigned before mmissioner Collins and admitted $1,000 dollars bail, which was fur-shed for his appearance before a ited States grand jury. Meanile a sample of beer had been taken om each of the ten barrels in his esence, he signing a statement to e effect that the beer was in the me condition when the samples ere taken as it was when it t the brewery. Each sample as "poisoned," to use prohibition forcement parlance—that is, bi-loride of mercury was put in each, prevent further fermentation, so at the alcoholic content will be the me at the end of six months as it s then.
A driver summoned from New rk took truck and beer Wednesday ternoon to that city, where they ll be used as evidence against the ewery proprietor. A libel will be eferred against the truck for gal use in transporting beer.

Up to this afternoon, nobody in nville had been arrested on com-nt of the Prohibition agents.

Arthur Lenox, New York Policeman, Dies Instantly When His Truck Gets Out of Control and Goes Into Ditch.

Arthur Lenox, a member of the New York city police force, who had been spending his summer vacation at the New York city police camp at Platte Clove, was instantly killed about nine o'clock this morning when a large motor truck which he was driving got beyond control through failure of the brakes to work properly and jumped a ditch at a sharp curve in the road between West Saugerties and Blue Mountain.

With Lenox at the time of the accident were a number of other policemen, most of whom were on their way to Saugerties to take the train for New York after completing their vacation at the camp. They were all thrown out of the truck but none of them were injured beyond slight scratches and bruises. Lenox was thrown from the driver's seat and received a fractured skull, which killed him instantly.

The Platte Clove hill is steep and there are a number of sharp curves and turns in the road. The accident occurred near the Fitch bungalow colony, where there is a sharp turn at the foot of a hill. Lenox, who is said to have been an expert driver, applied the brakes but they refused to work, and the large truck, loaded with policemen, left the roadway and turned over in the ditch alongside.

Lenox's body was taken in charge by Undertaker Norvin R. Lasher and will be sent to his home in New York city.

URGE INCOME TAX RETURN PUBLICITY

LaFollette and Others to Make Direct Attack on Big Corporations Whose Lawyers Are Able to Hoodwink Government.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, July 20.—A determined fight will be made in the next congress by a coalition of Democrats and Republican progressives for an amendment to the revenue act, requiring publicity on all income tax returns, it was learned here today.

Senator LaFollette, Republican of Wisconsin, has served notice that at the opening of congress in December he will introduce a bill to accomplish this. Such legislation is regarded as a direct attack on large taxpayers who are now shielded in every possible way by the government, through a rule holding that tax matters are confidential.

Revenue officials of the treasury, dealing with the tax returns of large operations, are aghast at the skilled and successful attempts of shrewd corporations, able to hire the best lawyers, to hoodwink the government. So successful have been these trust lawyers that the government this year will have to refund to corporations an amount which may exceed $75,000,000 on taxes already paid into the treasury. Publicity of the returns of such corporations, officials said, would open to the government sources of information about the true liabilities of those concerns, that are not now easily discernible to the limited staff of investigators at the command of the internal revenue bureau.

Bankers Enjoyed Banquet.

The officers and trustees of the Kingston Savings Bank held a banquet at Plunkett's Hotel, Lackawack, Thursday evening. Attorney James A. Betts acted as chaperon.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, July 20.—William H. Anderson, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of New York was indicted by the grand jury here today on charges of grand larceny and forgery.

The indictments were filed with Judge John F. McIntyre of general sessions.

The charge grew out of the alleged misuse of $24,700 of the Anti-Saloon League's funds. O. B. Phillips, a former collector for the Anti-Saloon League was the principal complaining witness before the jury.

Phillips told how he solicited funds under Anderson's direction, being paid a commission on all money he secured toward the conduct of the league. Anderson, he charged, forced him to "split" these commissions.

The forgery charge grew out of the state's allegation, as presented by District Attorney Banton, that Anderson ordered the books of the league altered to cover up this "splitting" of commissions.

The case, from the outset, has been marked by extreme bitterness between the dry leader and the district attorney.

Charge and counter-charge were hurled back and forth in signed statements issuing from both Anderson's and Banton's offices.

The dry leader charged the district attorney was making political capital of the matter, and was seeking to build a platform upon which he could run for the governorship.

Banton countered by inviting Anderson to waive immunity and appear before the grand jury in his own behalf. This the dry chief refused to do. Churchmen, identified with the league, appeared in his behalf, however, and charged that Phillips in his testimony, was prompted by a spirit of "revenge" rather than justice.

The indictment charges that Anderson misused money he claimed was being spent for "publicity purposes."

The larceny charge, as returned by the jury, is in the first degree, while the forgery is charged as "third degree."

Anderson was in court with his attorney, former Governor Whitman, when the foreman of the jury returned the indictment against him.

Judge McIntyre fixed bail at $5,000.

Conviction on the charges carries a maximum penalty of 25 years.—10 years on each of the two counts of grand larceny and 5 years on the charge of forgery.

Phillips was the last witness before the jury, being recalled by the investigating body but a few minutes before they returned the indictment. Phillips is believed to have repeated his previous testimony on several important points.

The language of the first count of the true bill alleges "Anderson unlawfully obtained the sum of $4,573.11, in March, 1921," and states the Anti-Saloon League as the "party defrauded."

Anderson, in statements issued before the indictment was returned, contended this sum and was used for the league's publicity purposes.

The second count is virtually the same as the first, charging misuse of $1,750. Anderson, in many statements, has said this sum was paid as "interest on the publicity account of $24,700."

The forgery count involves the alleged altering of the league's books in connection with Phillips's activities. The charge reads that "Anderson caused a false entry to be made involving $4,400," the entry changed from "salary" to "hotel and expenses" under the account of Phillips."

Word that Anderson had been indicted spread quickly and crowds gathered about the court building. It was necessary for police reserves to maintain order.

Anderson had been notified of his indictment some time previous to the actual return, and arrived in court 20 minutes before the jury filed in.

Immediately after the indictment was read Anderson entered a plea of not guilty.

After presenting his bond, signed by a casualty company, Anderson posed for photographers and left the court building.

RAIN AND WIND

"Hello," said the King of the Clouds to Mr. Wind.

"Hello," said Mr. Wind, and he whistled a great long whistle. Then he blew and he shouted:

"I'm Mr. Wind and I'm wild today.
I'm full of pranks, I'm full of play.
I don't care what the people say,
I am going to have a time so gay."

The King of the Clouds laughed, for the Wind was certainly full of energy and good spirits. He seemed almost beside himself with joy. Oh, how hard he was blowing. Everything seemed to be blown about that he touched. Even the ears of dogs flapped in the wind, though they did stay attached to their owners' heads! And the people were either blown about when they were out or had to keep their windows down indoors or all their things would be blown about. Yet it was quite hot and really a day which would be called a muggy day.

They really wanted to open their windows wide so they could have the air. But if they opened them more than a crack the papers began to blow and the curtains blew so that they looked as though they would come down, and the ornaments looked as though they would smash down and break.

"It has been warm lately," said the King of the Clouds, "and people have said how things have grown. People who have been in cities all through the week and who have gone out on Saturdays and Sundays have said as they have looked at the flowers and the shrubs and the trees and the leaves, 'Oh, how they have grown.'

"Yes, they have spoken of the flowers just as though they were children, for you know how people will say to children, 'How you have grown.'

"And the people have even said to the flowers, 'Why, last week you were nothing but a little bud, and here you are all out.'

"In just the very same way that people will say to a child, 'Why, my dear, you seemed only a baby so short a time ago, and here you are grown up almost!'

"And the flowers have said that of course they have grown just as children grow, and that it really is very silly to seem so surprised about it. But the flowers have said that people didn't say these things to them in a patronizing way, as they often did to children, which made it all right.

"And some people have said that they could actually see the flowers growing—opening before their very eyes.

The Wind kept blowing and blowing and pretty soon the King of the Clouds spoke again.

"Mr. Wind, wouldn't you like me to join you? The people are all saying that it is looking 'overcast' and as though it might rain. And here I am all ready for a good frolic. I am eager for fun."

"Even the Ears of Dogs Flapped."

"Join me, join me by all means," said Mr. Wind.

So the King of the Clouds joined Mr. Wind and Mr. Wind blew and the King of the Clouds called forth all the Army of Raindrops and what a time they had.

They chased over the pavements and the roads and the sidewalks—Mr. Wind after them! They ran races. They had so beautiful a time.

"Well, well," laughed the King of the Clouds, "I did hear such a funny thing just now. Someone opened a window and poked her head out for a second and then she said, 'Oh, mercy, it is raining to beat the band.'

"Now that is a joke! I may beat down upon pavements and the roads and the sidewalks but I don't beat the band. I wouldn't know how to beat a drum, nor would I know how to play an instrument and so make music. Fancy the King of the Clouds playing a saxophone or a cornet! What funny expressions people use."

And then the King of the Clouds and Mr. Wind raced and chased even more and oh, such a wind and rain storm as it was.

The people who were indoors shook their heads and said, "Impossible to go out on a day like this." And the ones who were already out-of-doors got soaked—drenched right through all their clothes.

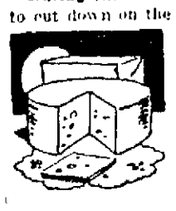
GOOD SUMMER MAIN DISHES

During the warm weather it is wise to cut down on the supply of meat for the menu. A dish which is sustaining and nourishing enough to take the place of meat will be found in the following list:



Sphaghetti and Cheese.—Take one-half pound of spaghetti broken into pieces and cook in boiling salted water until tender, then drain. Make a white sauce using a tablespoonful each of flour and butter, with one pint of milk. Cook together until smooth, adding salt to season and one-half pound of mild cheese cut fine. When the cheese is melted, add one cupful of cooked corn, one large green pepper finely minced, and the spaghetti. Pour into a buttered baking dish, dot with butter, and brown in a hot oven. A teaspoonful of Worcestershire sauce is an improvement if liked.

Tuna With Mushrooms.—Take two cupfuls of tuna fish, one cupful of thin cream, one teaspoonful of butter, one-half teaspoonful of salt, a few dashes of cayenne, a grating of nutmeg, two cupfuls of mushrooms cut in dice and cooked in a little butter for five minutes, one cupful of thin white sauce, and a tablespoonful of minced parsley. To the tuna add the mushrooms, cream and seasonings. Mix and stir in the butter, simmer for fifteen minutes. Serve on strips of buttered toast and pour hot, well seasoned white sauce with the parsley added over all.

California Eggs.—Have eight hard-cooked eggs cut lengthwise. Parboil the tender portions of a bunch of asparagus cut in inch lengths. Butter a small baking dish, put in the eggs cut side up, spread with asparagus, then cover with the remaining eggs, yolks down. Make a white sauce using the asparagus liquor and cream, thicken with butter and flour cooked smooth, then pour this mixture over the contents of the dish; sprinkle with buttered crumbs and bake fifteen minutes.

Banana Short Cake.—Bake a plain layer cake, flavoring with orange extract. Make an orange filling and slice bananas over the filling and on top. Whipped cream and bananas may be used if desired.

THERE'S A FARMER IN THIS SUIT

It looks like a city man's suit but that doesn't mean anything. When it comes to clothes and the comforts of life there's not much difference nowadays between R. F. D. and N. Y. C.

Farmers each year step into various stores and buy hats to the tune of twenty million dollars.

They spend fifteen million dollars for gloves and mittens. Their "pin money" for shirts, neckties, handkerchiefs, amounts to more than ten million dollars.

Suits run into more money. Conservative figures show that clothes for the men folks on the farms cost about 250 million dollars a year.

These figures are based on very conservative estimates. The actual amounts spent are probably much greater.

The KANTROWITZ store has been a favorite shopping place for Farmers and their Sons of Ulster County for a number of years because they, like all our patrons, are sure of getting value for every dollar spent for goods. Once a patron, always a patron. If you are not a buyer at this store become one. You'll not regret it.

OLONIALS PLAY CUBANS TONIGHT

Fair Grounds at 6:15 o'Clock—"Lefty" Kinnere Will Probably Pitch—"Chief" Mueller Will Umpire.

Tonight at the Fair Grounds the ddletown Cubans will again play Schirickmen, this being the rub- of a three game series.

The Cubans are a very strong club eeting all the fast teams through- the state. Thursday at Pough- epsie they lost to the Schatz Club a 4 to 1 score.

"Lefty" Kinnere, who pitched the olonials to victory over the Red ox team at the latter's diamond st week, will in all probability do e hurling for the local team this ening. Kinnere lives at Schenec- dy and Manager Brown stated this erning that he was sure of secur- g his services for today. "Chad" e will be with the Colonials to- ght, playing in the outer garden. abe Dearman could not be reached terday by the local management d his whereabouts at this time is t known. He was expected to join e Colonials last Wednesday.

"Chief" Mueller of Poughkeepsie ll umpire balls and strikes this ening. Mueller is considered a r good official having received of- rs from the International League. e to business, McGrath cannot get re on time to preside at the game.

OOTLEG CHIEF KILLED IN N.Y.

His Gang Escapes and Two Detectives Are Probably Mortally Wounded In View of Crowd.

Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, July 20.—Police today mbed "bootleg row" in Harlem for ur companions of Frank Antico, otleg chieftain, shot and killed by lice last night after he and his nd had wounded, perhaps fatally, tectives Edward Sullivan and Ben- min King.

Antico, police say, headed one of e most active gang of bootleggers the east. The men operated in e "Black Beilt" of Harlem. Sulli- n and King were put on the trail of e gand and encountered Antico th four fellow gangsters. Hun- eds of pedestrians were passing as tico, his companion and the de- tives staged a gun battle. Both tectives were wounded and were conscious in the hospital today. tico's companions escaped after he s killed.

SUMMER FURS.

Of all the fashions, the most mystifying and inexplicable is the wearing of heavy furs in hot weather. The mere sight of them is heating as well as irritating when the thermometer runs high in the nineties, and what must the slaves of fashion who wear them suffer in torrid weather It is scarcely surprising to read of an organization in New York "to combat the present fashion of summer fur wearing by women." Hailing this new "crusade" with joy, a correspondent of the New York Times relates how a young woman in the subway insisted on "laying up against" his arm "a tremendous fur piece" and when he asked her to remove it she indignantly informed him that he was "queer." He objects to sitting "next to these fur pieces" daily in the subway, and not unreasonably argues that the heat and the crowd are bad enough without being jammed up against a fur-furnace.

Another correspondent, a woman defiantly giving herself the surname of "Furlong," speaks of the said "crusade" with lofty scorn and pours out upon it the entire contents of her vials of wrath. She argues that there is nothing so ridiculous as a stout man wearing a derby hat on a hot day, and concludes: "Surely in this land of the free we can wear what we please so long as the attention we attract does not block traffic, and is in keeping with our morality standards Anyhow, just try to stop the ladies wearing anything they please Just try to do it!" And, as a matter of fact, what is the use of "trying it" in the face of such a determined and invincible attitude? The organization opposed to the wearing of furs by women in summer may as well shut up shop, its crusaders may as well stop crusading and save themselves a waste of effort in hot weather.

GROWLING GOMPERS.

Of course Mr. Gompers finds fault with the anthracite report of the Coal Commission. Part of his attack is directed at the recommendation that the president be authorized to take over the operation of mines and fix wages whenever there is a suspension of work. The labor chief declares the miners will never surrender their right to strike. He means, in effect, that the right of the people to the natural resources of the country must always be subordinated to the "right" of the miners to stop the fuel supply whenever it suits them to do so. Mr. Gompers's attitude in this matter is strictly consistent with his support of the Boston police strike, the efforts of the rail workers to tie up transportation, and the miners' strike of last summer.

The minds of Mr. Gompers and of those who think as he does must be disabused of that idea before we can enjoy any peace in the mines or other essential industry. The needs of the public are paramount to the wishes of any minority. It must be presumed that the president, acting for the interests of all of the people, would fix reasonable wage rates and fix prices for coal that would pay such rates. Mr. Gompers prefers to retain unto himself and his organization the power over wages, but the miners may rest assured that their welfare would be as safely guarded by the president should it ever become necessary to take over the mines.

C E. Ruthenberg, one of the new leaders of the Farmer-Labor party, has served a year and a half in Sing Sing on a charge of anarchy, served another year in the Canton workhouse for speeches he made in opposition to the war and to conscription, was three times socialist candidate for mayor of Cleveland, and has been executive secretary of the communist party and active in its organization work. The name "Farmer-Labor Party" carries the impression that farmers and laborers are its principal members. The record of Mr. Ruthenberg ought to convince our conservative citizens that it is merely a communist organization, differing in name only from the parent party. The interests of farmers and laborers will be best served by keeping clear of the anarchists and communists who are directing the affairs of the new party, and pinning their faith as before with the Republicans or Democrats.

What do you want to know about Nature Subjects? Send any questions of general interest to the Nature Notes Department of this paper, enclosing self-addressed and stamped envelope for reply.

Can You Answer These Questions?

1. How is it possible for a lizard to grow a new tail if the old one breaks off? Does it grow new bones?
2. Can any birds but orioles sew in making their nests?
3. Are bayberry candles really made from bayberries?

Answers in Tomorrow's Nature Notes.

Answers To Previous Questions.

1. Do thrushes fly well?

Outside of robins, not particularly so, as they do not need to fly much except when migrating, much of their food being taken from the surface of the ground over which they run rapidly when getting worms, etc. When they do fly the motion is in fairly long sweeps, in slight undulations.

2. Is there any insect that can turn its head?

Yes, the mantids, belonging to the straight-winged insects, orthoptera They have a long prothorax with the head set on it transversely and look over their shoulders when watching for prey. The front legs are kept folded ready to grasp the insect food they eat, and from this position the mantid does look something like a kneeling figure, which look causes them to be called praying mantids

3. Are the same varieties of fishes distributed evenly all over the country?

No, the middle west is decidedly richer in fresh-water genera, particularly around the Ohio and Mississippi River regions, which have also more species per genera than the New England or the Pacific coast fresh-water examples of fishes.

HOW

BRITISH LAND IS BEING TAKEN FROM CULTIVATION. —Great Britain would have been compelled to capitulate within eight or ten weeks if Germany had declared war in May or June, instead of in August, when the English had started gathering their harvest, is the belief of Sir Herbert Matthews, secretary of the central chamber of agriculture.

Britain is still reaping a little benefit from the land put under cultivation during the war, Sir Herbert states in the London Weekly Dispatch, but that land is rapidly passing out of cultivation. England today approximately consumes 35,000,000 quarters of wheat a year, and of this quantity produces about one fifth.

Prewar production was only 5,000,000 quarters for a consumption of 32,000,000, and soon 7,000,000 quarters will be an optimistic estimate of the English output. The remainder must come from the plains of Canada, the great spaces of the United States, from Argentina, Australia and India.

Not quite so serious is the position in regard to meat. About three-fifths of the meat consumed by England is produced on home land. In a pinch, in this respect, the nation could carry on. No milk is imported, and the trade is prosperous, but milk products are not encouraged in Britain, as the farmers are unable to compete with cheese from America and Holland. Sir Herbert predicts that we may live to see the day when British butter will be a thing of the past. His panacea for these evils is some form of protection to encourage home growing.

TAPIOCA IN SOUTH AMERICA

How Indian Women Turn Out Condiment That Is a Favorite Article on Their Menu.

How the Indians of Brazil manufacture the starchy, jelly-like globules, called tapioca, is described by Mr. Charles W. Mead in "Natural History." The Indian woman, he says, takes a large piece of bitter cassaca root in both hands and rubs it back and forth on a board studded with hundreds of sharp pebbles until the root is reduced to pulp.

When she has grated a sufficient quantity she presses as much water out of it as possible. For that purpose she uses as a press a long, narrow tube of basketwork called a tipiti, with a loop at either end. She forces the pulp into the press, which she then hangs up by one of the loops. Through the lower loop she inserts a long, stout pole, which she runs under some convenient object, which serves as a fulcrum. Then she sits on the free end of the pole, and her weight stretches the press and forces the liquid through the interstices of the basketwork.

The liquid is caught in a pottery vessel and is made into cassareep, the favorite condiment of the South American Indian.

How Fox Farm Was Founded.

Fifteen years ago Blake Vaunetter, a farmer's boy at Georgetown, Ont., caught a pair of ordinary wild foxes on his father's farm Despite parental opposition he preserved them, and they became the foundation of the largest fox ranch in Ontario.

The home of fox ranching is Prince Edward island There, in the seclusion and simplicity preserved by the tight little island that serves as a guardian of the Atlantic coast, the art of fox raising was begun many years ago by individual farmers who dug the progenitors of the present purest silver foxes out of their dens in the woods. For a long time these pioneers worked in secret, and it was many years before the world knew, before their neighbors knew, their source of revenue or the methods they pursued in securing it.

How to Escape Trouble.

The following tips for world tourists are contained in a book just written by Rev. Frank Tatchall, vicar of Midhurst, England, a seasoned traveler:

"If you are lost don't worry about starvation The ordinary traveler can live on his own fat for a week, and he can sustain life by chewing pieces of his shoes.

"If attacked by a dog, shove your hat at him and, when he takes hold, kick him under the chin.

"If you get into a mob in the East, hurt one in the crowd, and hurt him quickly, and you will be able to slip away.

"To drive away homesickness, blues and induce sleep, sing and whistle in bed and let out piercing yells with your head wrapped in the bedclothes."

How to Remove Old Paint.

Probably the best way to remove paint is to apply a solution of soda and quicklime in equal proportions. The soda should be dissolved first in water and the quicklime added, the mixture being applied with a brush. A few moments are sufficient to remove the paint, which may then be washed off with hot water. To remove traces of the alkali, the wood should be afterward washed with vinegar or some other acid solution. The best way to remove varnish is to apply a mixture of equal parts of ammonia and water.

RUM-RUNNING DECLINES ON SEA

Hardy Scotch Sailors Balk at Signing For Hazards That Include Pirates, Hard-Boiled Customers and Many Other Things That Cut Profits.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Glasgow, July 20.—The rum-running business between wet countries and United States is undergoing a slump, it was learned today in connection with the investigation the British government has been making into whiskey smuggling from British soil into "dry" America.

Prospects of great fortunes being built up by supplying whiskey to American bootleggers are dimming. Those venturesome spirits, who, a few months ago, believed they had discovered a new gold mine three miles off the American Atlantic coast, are now doubting the value of the business

Risks which attend the rum running enterprises have proved too great in many cases. It is only highly organized gambling syndicates that are now willing to sink money in the maintenance of whiskey fleets off the New York and New Jersey coasts.

British customs officials, especially in the Clyde ports, are putting all possible obstacles in the way of whiskey smuggling.

Greed on the part of American bootleggers has put still a further crimp in the business. Owners claim that when they reached the American coast they were compelled to dicker with hard-boiled individuals who demanded the lion's share of the profits

American reports of pirates off the New Jersey coast, preying upon the rum fleet, has made it more difficult to sign up seamen for the adventuresome voyage across the Atlantic. American "high jackers," armed with automatic pistols, which they are handy to use, have put fear into the hearts of many Glasgow sailor men who have no fear of storms at sea but dislike the possibility of a volley of bullets.

All indications point to a continued slump in rum running, owing to the increasing number of obstacles that the officials on both sides of the Atlantic are putting in the way of those dealers in contraband wet goods.

Pope Condemns Outrages.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Rome, July 20.—Cardinal Gasparri, papal secretary of state, today issued a public letter in the name of Pope Pius XI severely criticizing recent outrages that were perpetrated under the cloak of Fascism in the Catholic communities of Pisa, Florence and other cities.

CONVICTIONS IN CASES OF 5,191

Who Violated Prohibition Laws in State in 1922, Reports Anti-Saloon League—Ulster County Punished 11.

Orville S. Poland general counsel for the Anti-Saloon League of New York, gave out the following statement accompanying an 18 page report of the disposal of liquor cases in New York state:

"The annual report of liquor cases just compiled by the Anti-Saloon League of New York contains data concerning the work of the courts within the state of New York in the enforcement of prohibition which, so far as I know is nowhere else available

"The summary shows there were 10,569 liquor indictments found or pending during 1922, about equally divided between the state and federal courts. Of these 7,323 were 1922 indictments and 3,246 were pending January 1, 1922. Of all these 1,101 were dismissed. The state courts had 86 acquittals and the federal courts 50. The number of cases pending January 1, 1923, was 4,151, of which 1,576 were in the state courts.

"There were 3,044 convictions in the state courts with fines paid amounting to $329,916 and jail sentences imposed amounting to 23 years, 3 months and 11 days. The convictions in the federal courts were 2,147, with $364,143 in fines and 14 years, 5 months and 11 days in jail sentences.

"The state courts in the five boroughs of New York city had before them during 1922, 1,821 liquor cases. Of these 297 were dismissed, 47 were acquitted and 1,160 were convicted, the rest were pending January 1st. The fines in New York city amounted to $29,233 and the jail sentences to 1 year, 1 month and 12 days.

"The percentage of cases acquitted in New York city is 3 per cent. The percentage convicted is 77 per cent. The remaining 20 per cent of cases disposed of were dismissed by the courts.

"The state over 18 per cent of the indictments were dismissed and only 2 per cent were acquitted, while 80 per cent were convicted. In short, the chance for an indicted bootlegger to get off free is but one in five."

In Ulster county, it is stated in 1922 there were 6 indicted and 8 cases pending. Eleven of these resulted in convictions and five amounting to $2,300 were collected.

CURRENT OFFERINGS AT THE THEATRES

"Where the Pavement Ends," a romance of the South Seas, by Rex Ingram, is at Keeney's Theatre until Saturday night. Off the beaten track, the story tells how love came into the life of the lonely, beautiful daughter of a South Seas missionary amid the beauty and strangeness of the tropics. Ramon Novarro as the man the girl loved and Harry Morey, the villianous trader, fight for her with that furious madness engendered only by jealousy.

Again the Rudyard Kipling theme of "The Vampire," which is depicted in "A Fool There Was," that is playing at the Auditorium today, demonstrated its fascination for picture fans yesterday. Estelle Taylor is a subtle and personable vampire woman.

GOT TOO POPULAR

Why Couple Returned to Kitchenette Apartment.

"Comp'ny" Was All Right, but It Is Possible to Have Too Much of a Good Thing.

He liked "comp'ny" and his young wife was also fond of having folks in. Life was much less monotonous when friends were around. But they lived in a one-room apartment with a mysterious disappearing kitchenette, and when they were both at home the place was thronged. They had no space to give over to entertaining visitors.

One evening, says a writer in the New York Sun and Globe, they invited a couple in for some bridge and when they pivoted the visiting lady was badly trampled. After that lamentable experience they gave up the idea entirely and spent all of their spare time longing for the day when the incoming shillings would be abundant enough to provide commodious quarters.

"If we can only get ourselves adequately housed," said the wife, "we can entertain our friends to our hearts' content."

The husband finally dislodged the necessary raise in salary. With no attempt to conceal their jubilation, they selected an apartment with four rooms, a kitchenette and a bath. Almost hilariously they announced frequent house-warmings. Their many friends flocked to offer congratulations.

And after the first period of celebrations had ended the friends continued to come. They dropped in without invitation or provocation. From their own cramped quarters they issued continuously to share in the spacings of the fortunate ones. The famine of "comp'ny" ended. The young man and his wife were inundated with it. Several vain efforts were made to stop the inrush. But the friends calmly overlooked all hints and faltered not.

Early one Sunday morning, as the last of a large delegation of self-invited poker players had departed, the husband spoke. There was a trace of exasperation in his voice.

"When we lived where we couldn't entertain we wanted 'comp'ny' all the time," he said. "Now that we are in position to entertain we have it all the time, whether we want it or not. Our friends drop in as if this were a subway station. They seem to think I'm the commissioner of parks and playgrounds. Just because we have more square footage than they have they do their romping here. The only difference betweeen our home and the public library is that we allow smoking and serve refreshments. I'm through.

The young wife checked every statement. And soon thereafter, although the multitude of friends bemoaned their act, they moved back to their former location. They decided if crowding had to be done they would do it themselves. They elbowed each other around and saved money. And when they felt as if they needed "comp'ny" they rode a local train through the East side subway during a rush hour and attempted to get off at Thirty-fourth street.

Mark Twain's Missouri Park.

In the memorial park at Florida, Mo., where Mark Twain was born, we suggest that plenty of those "slippery elums" that Mark's group of youngsters knew, be planted. They are the ulmus fulva, which Mark's boys didn't know and would have scorned under such a hifalutin title if they had.

As this memorial park grows in beauty and umbrageousness and in influence by the gifts and endowments from Mark Twain admirers, we hope to see the statues of Huck Finn and Tom Sawyer rise there, of Aunt Polly and the other homefolk characters that appeal to the sentiment of Western people among whom the genius, Samuel Clemons, grew up.

Mark Twain's birthplace will in time become one of the greatest of literary shrines, for it is now brightly clear that he is one of the American immortals.

Successful Woman Salvager.

Mrs. Margaret Goodman, the only woman marine salvager in America, was originally a journalist, but she wanted thrills and so she took to her present occupation. She first became known some five years ago, when she salvaged valuable copper and iron from a vessel which had been sunk in Lake Michigan for more than half a century. She succeeded where men had failed. Several lives had been lost and hope given up, when Mrs. Goodman decided to try her luck.

Japanese "Bean Town."

Dairen, a Japanese city in Manchuria, according to reports, is the port of what is becoming the greatest bean-raising country of today. The product, also used in making soy-bean sauce and soy-bean oil, is exported to various markets. The soy-bean sauce is familiar to patrons of "Chinatown" restaurants.

ITS GOVERNOR KIWANIS'S GUEST

Mr. Mitchell Tells of International Organization's Affairs—Invitation to Poughkeepsie.

District Governor Lewis Mitchell of New York and Lieutenant-Governor Walter Lloyd of Poughkeepsie, of Kiwanis International, were the guests of the Kingston Kiwanis Club at its Thursday luncheon at the Y. M. C. A., and "Steamboat Bill" Van Steenburgh of Newburgh was another visitor who was given a hearty welcome. The sobriquet is derived from his connection with the Central Hudson Steamboat Company.

Governor Mitchell addressed the club at some length on their duties as Kiwanians, explaining the principles that have caused it to grow to 1,100 clubs and 80,000 members in eight years—members chosen from every business and profession. The principles simmer down to "The golden rule in business," and general civic helpfulness.

The governor and lieutenant governor had just motored to the boys' camp established by the New York City Kiwanis Club at Hopewell Junction and found 45 little fellows there who would not have been at any camp were it not for the New York club. Each was attired in a neat khaki suit with a red "K" sewed onto it and was having the time of his life.

The international program for the coming year has been formulated and calls for fostering the brotherhood of mankind as the best means of preventing war, closer knitting of organization bonds between individual clubs and the district and international machinery, promotion of work for under-privileged children, and closer relations between the farmer and the city man, as well as with chambers of commerce and other civic organizations.

Mr. Lloyd extended a cordial invitation to the local club to come down and take charge of a meeting at Poughkeepsie in the near future and said that he had heard in many parts of the state talk of the excellent attendance record made here in the recent contest.

Lewis Brown gave the attendance prize and Henry Darrow won it again.

The new song leader, Clarence S. Rowland, got a lot of loud harmony out of those seated at the tables.

JESSICA AND EARL ON HONEYMOON

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Chicago, July 20.—Lake Geneva and points east, west, north and south in the state of Wisconsin were having their glimpses today of the Earl of Northesk, 22 year old husband of Jessica Brown, former Follies beauty, and Jessica.

Jessica and her earl changed their minds yesterday afternoon and got married, even though they had protested to an army of reporters most of the day that, although they did expect to get married they were not going to wed in Chicago.

The earl was considerably interested in the newsgathering methods of the American press. He had an unexpected escort of anywhere from five to fifteen reporters all day long. It seems they were expecting the earl and Jessica to change their minds.

Announcement

To Gas and Electric Customers

The number of bills for service paid at the office each month during the discount period and particularly on the tenth, has increased to a point where it causes considerable delay and inconvenience to our customers on account of the congestion in the office.

In order to do away with this condition and in the interest of economy and efficiency in the handling of our customers' accounts, we have adopted a new plan of billing and collection.

Beginning in July, 1923, bills for service supplied during the previous monthly period will be delivered from day to day during the month, and WILL BE PAYABLE WITHIN TEN DAYS AFTER THEY ARE RENDERED, instead of on the tenth of the month as at present. To avoid confusion, the date of the last day for discount will be stamped plainly on each bill. During July, the first month of this plan of billing, some of our customers will receive two bills for service. In starting the system, it is impossible to avoid this. But bear in mind that the second bill will not duplicate the first.

We will endeavor to put this plan into effect with a minimum of inconvenience to our customers, and trust that it will meet with their approval and have their active cooperation.

Invest Some Money in Braided Thread!

It has been pointed out—

That the manufacture of Braided Sewing Thread is a highly profitable business.

That the demand for Braided Thread in the shoe industry alone, is more than double the supply.

That the demand for finer sizes of Braided Thread is unlimited.

Also—

That the Braided Thread Corporation controls world rights to the "Hale Braider," which produces thread at approximately 40% less cost, and is the ONLY machine which successfully produces the finer sizes.

We wish to now point out that the management of the Braided Thread Corporation is in the hands of experienced and seasoned men; men with a thorough knowledge not only of manufacturing braided thread, but of financing and marketing, buying and selling, thus rounding out the complement of factors contributing to the favorable position of this company.

Call or write at once for full details of the Preferred and Common Stock of the BRAIDED THREAD CORPORATION.

After trying for some time to get a seed out of her orange juice, my little daughter asked me to do it for her. I told her that surely when mother squeezed the orange for her the least she could do was to take the seed out, to which she tearfully replied: "But mother, I have tried, and every time I go to catch it, it swims away from me."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

MORE SUICIDES IN THE CITIES

Also, More Rich and Cultured People Kill Selves Than Do Others, Says Life Insurance Company's Report.

Suicide is more prevalent among city dwellers than in the rural population, and is resorted to more by those engaged in intellectual pursuits and well off financially than by those less fortunate, mentally and economically.

This is the conclusion of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company in a report, a copy of which has been received by the American Child Health Association, an organization concerned with the mental and physical welfare of the individual at the source, namely in childhood. This association is aiming its effort at reduction of all causes leading to mental and physical ills, many of which have been found to lead to suicide.

The Metropolitan Life's report is based on observation from the company's policy-holders. It says: "In 1922 the rate of suicide mortality was 7.4 per 100,000 industrial policy-holders. While 1922 figures for the general population of the United States are not available at this time, those for prior years have shown, without exception, that suicides are much more numerous in the population as a whole than among the wage earning group. Suicide is more prevalent among dwellers in the city. When comparisons are made between suicide rates of insured wage earners and suicide figures for the urban population in general, the contrast in favor of the former is more marked than ever. The relatively low rate among workers confirms the well known fact that self destruction is more common among those engaged in intellectual pursuits and those who are better circumstanced financially.

WHITER CLOTHES BY NEW DISCOVERY

Stains Dissolved and Wash Made Dazzling White as When New.

It's here at last! No more gray, dingy, lifeless white clothes, but every washday that lustrous "new" appearance. A marvelous new discovery, NACO, added to the wash water with your regular soap, routs every spot and stain, loosens the most stubborn grime, whitens and purifies.

Yet it is as harmless as the purest soap, and baby's most precious dresses may be safely entrusted to it. In fact, NACO helps lengthen the wear by eliminating the necessity of hard rubbing. It is especially valuable for nursery and sickroom bedclothes and garments, for it not only banishes every spot, but also deodorizes and disinfects as it works.

Don't throw away that perspiration-stained waist or that ink-stained shirt. NACO will turn them out fresh and immaculate as when new, a joy to behold and a pleasure to use.

Not only on washday but every day in the week NACO can be of yeoman assistance. A little dropped in the scrub bucket cuts the dirt wherever found—on the floors and walls and woodwork—in wash bowl, bathtub and sink—and it sweetens and deodorizes wherever it goes.

You can get NACO at your grocer's 15 cents for a generous size bottle.—Advertisement.

DELORA MAY SEE CHILD IF HE SUPPORTS IT

A hearing was had Wednesday afternoon before County Judge Joseph M. Fowler, in a habeas corpus proceeding brought by Charles Delora of Rosendale against his wife Mollie Delora to produce the eight months' old child of the parties. Delora claiming that he was not permitted to see the child. Mrs. Delora appeared by Ex-Mayor William D. Brinnier, as her attorney and moved to dismiss the proceedings on the ground that the petition was irregular and was addressed to the supreme court instead of the county court and the county court had no right to issue the writ of habeas corpus. Judge Fowler granted the motion to dismiss. Later there was a conference and talk of the husband paying for the support of the child, if he wished to see it once every two weeks. Chris Flanagan appeared for Delora.

SAYS 800,000 MEN IN ARMY OF BOLSHEVISTS

English Correspondent Brings New Data on Soviet's Military and Naval Forces.

Much of the mystery and speculation which have existed concerning the strength of the soviet Red army is said to have been cleared up by a military correspondent of the London Daily Mail, who has just returned from Moscow. He says that at the beginning of 1923 the strength of the army had fallen from 950,000 to 800,000. At the present time there are 280,000 men in the infantry, 60,000 in the cavalry, 70,000 in the technical units and 80,000 in the navy. The cheka's frontier units total 50,000 men and its internal units 60,000.

The army has 2,000,000 rifles, 14,500 machine guns, 5,700 light machine guns, 3,000 cannon, more than 3,000,000 shells, and 1,000,000,000 munitions. The war establishment of a division consists of 15,000 men and 6,500 horses, comprising three infantry regiments, three squads of cavalry, three batteries of field artillery, three howitzer batteries, and the usual contingents of sappers, engineers, munitions columns, etc.

There are 23 airplane factories, but only five are now working. The aviation department, which is in the hands of a committee of three with Trotzky at the head, expects to have 1,000 airplanes in 1924, with corresponding personnel.

The correspondent adds that the bolsheviks also have received many shipments of airplanes from Italy, England and Germany.

Realising the necessity of producing officers from the working classes, the bolsheviks have established many military schools. They are more numerous and better equipped, the Daily Mail's expert says, than similar schools in the United States and England. The schools embrace special classes in general staff work, engineering, infantry, cavalry and signals.

SAYS SHE SAW "ELIZA WHO CROSSED THE ICE"

Mrs. Meeky B. Coffin, aged 83, living in Cincinnati, Ohio, who confirms the fact that the "Eliza who crossed the ice" is no myth. Mrs. Coffin saw the "Eliza" in question herself, and she claims that part of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" is the gospel truth.

Mrs. Coffin states that when first married she lived with her father-in-law, Levi Coffin, famous abolitionist, and that "Eliza" and her baby came to his house to hide. Later "Eliza" escaped by crossing the ice on the Ohio river. She says this took place in 1848, two years after she was married. Levi Coffin and his wife are immortalized in "Uncle Tom's Cabin" as Simon and Rachel Halliday, the Quakers who took the fleeing Eliza and her child into their home.

THRIVE ON RUM-BANANA DIET

Jamaica Negro Stowaways Make Trip to New York on Queer Ration.

When the Sama left Kingston nineteen stowaways crept into the hold. Hatches were clamped on the negroes and the bananas, which were shipped green. The negroes knew there was a million stomach aches in the hold if they ate unripe bananas. So each cuddled up to a stem and hugged it close to his breast, even while asleep. The bananas ripened within a few hours. The stowaways had several jugs of "planter's punch," a concoction of fruit juices and Jamaica rum.

When the hatches were raised in New York the negroes came on deck popeyed and full of bananas. They will be sent back to Jamaica.

FORD CO., AT 20, GIANT IN INDUSTRY

The Ford Motor Company is twenty years old. The capital originally subscribed in the company was $100,000 of which only $28,000 in cash was actually paid into the treasury. Among the twelve stockholders with the company in its infancy Henry Ford held 25 per cent of the stock. Ford "sold" his car to the public at the very start by practical demonstration for he piloted the first Ford racer himself and won race after race in all parts of the country. Driving old "999" on an ice track at Baltimore Bay, Mich., he was the first to break the mile-a-minute record.

The first car manufactured by the Ford Motor Company was on the road in June and sold the early part of July, 1903. In the initial year, 1903-4, the company produced 1,708 cars and each year has seen a steady expansion until in 1922 production totaled 1,351,333 and this year will pass the 1,500,000 mark, a figure which it is estimated will equal if not exceed the combined output of all other automobile companies in the United States.

Since its start the company has produced more than 7,750,000 Fords and sent them to all parts of the world and more than 6,000,000 are now in use in the United States alone.

It has its own coal mines in West Virginia and Kentucky and iron ore mines and forests in northern Michigan. The Ford railroad, the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton, connects with practically every transcontinental line, which affords unusual shipping facilities. At River Rouge, with a plant area of 1,200 acres, the company besides having the largest foundry in the world, operates its own blast furnaces, machine shops, body plant, saw mill, coke ovens, cement plant, paper mill, power plant, locomotive repair shops and the Fordson Tractor plant. The company has a glass plant at Glassmere, Pa., another at Highland Park and a third is under construction at River Rouge. There also are manufacturing units at Hamilton, O., Northville, Mich., Troy, N. Y., Iron Mountain, Mich., and several points in and near Detroit. A $1,200,000 building under construction at Dearborn, Mich., will provide a new home for the Ford Engineering Laboratory.

There are more than 9,000 Ford dealers in the country and over 15,000 authorized Ford service stations, making a total of more than 24,000 points of contact with the motoring public. Foreign branches and associated companies are located at Buenos Aires, Sao Paulo and Montevidio, South America; Havana, Cuba; Copenhagen, Denmark; Antwerp, Belgium; Manchester, England; Barcelana, Spain; Bordeaux, France; and Trieste, Italy. There also is a manufacturing plant at Cork, Ireland. The Ford Motor Company of Canada, Ltd., located at Ford, Ontario, just across the river from Detroit, has an annual output of 75,000 Ford cars and trucks and does business not only in Canada but in the British possessions.

The Fordson Tractor was brought out in 1917, during which year 254 were produced. At present the Fordson plant at River Rouge is producing tractors at the rate of 500 a day.

The Lincoln Motor Company, organized in 1917 to produce motor cars of exceptionally high quality was acquired by the Ford Motor Company at a receiver's sale February 1, 1922. It is now known as a division of the Ford Motor Company and has an annual capacity of 10,500 motor cars.

The Clermont baseball team defeated the Tigers for the third time this season. The first score was 14-4. Brooks, who was employed as a truckman for a grocery concern, went to the building to deliver some supplies for the restaurant. He made several trips to the fourth floor, which is used as a storeroom. He ran the elevator himself. On the third trip, while trying to get a case off the elevator, it suddenly shot upward. Before he could jump out of the way his head was caught between the top and the ceiling. People in the building notified the Bergen street station. SNEEZE CURVE ARTIST FOILED

Streaky Hipson's Twirling Would Have Proved Effective If It Had Not Been For Busy Brain Of Captain Roodboy Who Solved The Problem And Won Game.

"Well did you bag it?" asked Blink Biven excitedly as Captain Roodboy and Raiser Turk, members of the fast traveling Gallupers, champions of the Mountain League, dropped off the auto bus and climbed aboard Blink's ancient flivver to resume the homeward journey.

"Naw," grunted Turk disgustedly "and I don't believe there is such an animal."

Blink's inquiry and Raiser's reply referred to the famous "mountain lion" reported seen in various parts of Ulster county the past few weeks."

The mountain lion had created such excitement in certain sections that Captain Ralph Roodboy, long known as the most famous hunter in the mountains, had been requested to drop baseball for the time being and take to the trail. He had been somewhat loath to do so but the request had come at an opportune time with Captain Twin Gormley laid up with an attack of measles and the rest of the Busters under quarantine, which threatened to last several weeks.

"How's the baseball situation?" asked Roodboy of Blink.

"Nothing stirring since you and Raiser left," explained Blink "but the Gallupers will be up against a hard proposition this afternoon when the Busters arrive for they have imported a new pitcher and he is said to be the goods."

"Well," replied Roodboy smiling "he may have better luck than Raiser and I with the mountain lion, but I'll tell the world the Busters will have to travel some."

"That's saying a mouthful," agreed Blink with enthusiasm.

The afternoon was ideal for baseball with the weather just hot enough to make the playing interesting. "Streaky" Hipson, the new twirler of the Busters, proved to be tall and lanky, and looked as though he could produce the goods.

And he did, for Raiser Turk, who headed the Gallupers' batting order, fell a victim to Streaky's sneeze ball. As the game progressed it was seen that Steaky's sneeze ball. As the game progressed it was seen that Streaky's sneeze ball could not be hit safely. Hipson had discovered the use of a certain herb that grows in only certain sections of the mountains, always carried a supply with him. Before tossing over the ball he deftly rubbed it with a small portion of the herb.

As the ball shot toward the batter the odor of the herb on the ball caused the batter to sneeze just as he was swinging, and as a result it was only by luck that the ball was hit at all.

Inning after inning slid by with the score tied for Roodboy's absence from the game had not interfered with his twirling and he pitched as he had never pitched before. All the time he was hurling them over Roodboy's busy brain was seeking a solution to the sneeze curve.

He realized that the game was liable to do into extra innings and this he did not desire, and it was not until the eighth frame was drawing to a close that he was suddenly seized with an inspiration.

The Busters who were first at bat came in for their half of the ninth and were retired quickly on three pitched balls all of which were hit but fielded by Blink Biven, who was covering short for the Gallupers.

Then in came the Gallupers with determination written large on their faces. Roodboy was the first man up, and decided to put his idea into practice. As Streaky Hipson wound up and shot over the sneeze curve Roodboy closed his eyes swung at the ball and at the same time emitted a terrific sneeze.

In fact Roodboy sneezed so hard that the blast caught the ball and knocked it over the fence for a home run clout winning the game. Roodboy trotted around the bases with a wide grin on his face as the Busters clustered around the umpire protesting that the ball had been blown out of the park, not knocked. As Roodboy's sneeze had made a terrific blast the umpire was of the impression that it was the crack of the bat meeting the ball, and ruled it was a safe clout.

Under the showers Roodboy extracted several lumps of cotton he had stuffed in his nose before stepping up to the bat in the last frame. "It pays to have a good strong pair of lungs," he observed with a grin to his admiring Gallupers.

ICELESS REFRIGERATOR MAY PROVE OF SERVICE

Has Great Value Where Ice Is Scarce.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Ithaca, N. Y., July 20.—A simple homemade device that may help some families is an iceless refrigerator, say home specialists at the state college of agriculture here. They do not claim that it can take the place of a regular ice box, but it is much better than no cooling system, although it will work only in dry freely circulating air. On rainy days and in damp climates, the refrigerator will scarcely work. It may not be as good as the cellar, the well, or a spring-house, for keeping things cool, but since it will keep the food nearer the kitchen it is a step saver.

The iceless refrigerator depends on the evaporation of water. It is a screened box covered with canton flannel which is kept moist by a pan on top. The water evaporating from the flannel cools the inside air.

To build the refrigerator, make a strong set of shelves supported at the corners and open on four sides, with a solid top, and a bottom several inches above the floor. Screen with non-rust screen wire on three sides, and fit a screen door to the fourth side. If the shelves and the bottom are made of reinforced screening it will allow freer circulation of air.

Cover the four sides entirely with canton flannel, smooth side out, buttoning it close to the frame. This may be done easily by sewing buttons on tape and tacking this tape firmly around the upper edge of the case on three sides, also down each side of the framework next the door and on the upper and outer edges of the door. Allow a flap of flannel to extend past the outer edge of the door to be buttoned over on the framework. Make buttonholes in the flannel to correspond to the buttons on the case. Around the top of the covering, sew four flaps of canton flannel a little narrower than each side of the case and large enough to extend up over the top and dip into the pan of water. These will serve as wicks or siphons to keep the entire surface of the flannel moist. If the refrigerator is to be set on the porch, a pan must be placed underneath the refrigerator to catch the water that drips down.

An extra flannel covering should be made so that one may be washed each week.

Upholstered Chairs.

To make the leather upholstered chairs look like new, thoroughly remove all dust, using a brush for the tufted furniture, before applying a dressing. This is necessary to prevent that streaky, blurred appearance. Mix equal parts of boiled linseed oil and turpentine (or vinegar) and apply with a piece of soft flannel; then polish with another flannel cloth.

A SERMON FITTING TO THE FIRST DUTCH CHURCH

The Freeman on Monday printed in full and without comment a sermon delivered at the First Dutch Church on Sunday morning by the Reverend Lucas Boeve, who a year ago was called to the pulpit of that historic church. There have been many comments upon it since its publication, to the effect that amid all the welter of creeds and policies of debate and discussion regarding the teachings of the fundamentalists and the modernists, always it is found that the best, the most progressive, the most constructive thought is turning more and more decisively to the figure of Christ as portrayed by Domine Boeve, and find in the Saviour and in his spirit and teaching the one possible solution of human perplexities. Here is a clergyman who has studied the biologists, materialists, the scientists and the evolutionists, who speaks not as an emotional enthusiast but as a careful student of the whole subject, and in simple language with clarity and unshaken faith, announces his conviction that the fundamental truths of Christianity remain unshaken by the avalanche of modern Biblical and clerical criticism. It was a sermon eminently becoming the traditions of a church which has occupied not only a unique place in Kingston, but in the Christian world. The mother of twenty-seven churches the First Dutch adheres unswervingly to the faith held by its founders two hundred and seventy three years ago.

Lovelight Went Out.

We were both attending the same school. One morning a freight train blocked the crossing and I could not get across the tracks. My beloved was there also. In a few minutes he said he was going to climb over the cars and I could stay there myself and be late if I wished. He climbed over the cars and left me. But he also let my lovelight for him go out.—Chicago Journal.

U. S. ATTITUDE ON CHESTER RIGHTS

No Guarantees Given Or Implied To Defend Concessions In Turkey—Were Obtained By Individuals That Government Not Officially Solicited.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, July 21.—Some of the uncertainty that has existed in the minds of the public and throughout the Washington and throughout the world as to the attitude of the United States government toward the concessions granted by Turkey to the Ottoman-American development company, headed by Rear Admiral Colby M. Chester, former American naval officer, was cleared up today with the publication of a letter officially setting forth the policy of the state department.

The letter was written by Assistant Secretary of State Leland Harrison to the National Popular Government League in reply to a communication submitted to Secretary of State Hughes in an effort to obtain an explanation of this government's status in connection with the Chester concession and the resulting negotiations with Turkey, Great Britain and other powers.

Secretary Harrison, speaking for the state department, denied that the concessionaires had been "promised more or political endorsement or have received assurances that in the event of any dispute this government would be bound to defend the validity of the concession."

"It is not this government's practice to demand, nor to give such assurances or to give implied future guarantees.

"It may be added that neither the department of state, nor its officers in the past took part in the negotiations for the concession. These were carried on directly by the parties concerned. As the department has taken occasion to point out the government's interest in matters of this nature is that of securing recognition for the policy of the open door in assuring equality of commercial opportunity and fair play."

Secretary Harrison said the state department had received no complete or authentic copy of the Chester concession, as approved by the Angora assembly, but understood that certain mining and railroad rights had been accorded to the Ottoman-American Development Company. The department's reports do not indicate, he added, that the concession is a "monopoly" or that it contemplates as suggested by the National Popular Government League the control of certain administrative functions in Asia Minor.

In its original communication to the state department, the league said its interest was caused by the fear that any pledges of moral support given by the United States might mean that thousands of American boys should be called to die abroad defending such commitments, to the possible advantage of the holders of contract in Asia Minor, but to the disadvantage and discredit of our nation."

Secretary Harrison dismissed this suggestion with the plain statement that there had been no guarantees given and said it would be the policy of government to deal with questions affecting its nationals as they arise, and "as international courtesy, equity and justice justify."

CONFERENCE OF ALL BRITISH AIM

Informal Talks With France Go On So That Note May Be Worded In Way To Get Parties At Table Together.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, July 20.—The German embassy was instructed today to inform the British that the Berlin government cannot order cessation of passive resistance in the Ruhr unless French evacuation is guaranteed by the Allies.

Germany suggested that, if the June reparations offer of the Berlin government was accepted, "mortgages" guaranteeing indemnity payments would be delivered within six weeks. However, Berlin would expect evacuation by French and Belgian troops to commence as soon as the mortgages were delivered.

There was another meeting of the cabinet at noon when the British reparations note again was considered.

It was learned at the foreign office that the British note does not bring up the question of allied debts.

The main object of the note, it was stated, is to bring the statesmen together "about the round-table" in an effort to reach a settlement satisfactory to all.

The British note may not be sent until next week.

Premier Stanley Baldwin was hopeful that the draft of the British note could be finished up today. There has been continuous exchanges of views between the British-foreign office and Comte St. Aulaire, the French ambassador, in the past few days. The French are showing more willingness for concessions than at any time since the Ruhr was occupied last January.

Up to the present, however, the French concessions have not met the demands made by Germany as conditions for cessation of passive resistance.

The Germans want restoration of civil authority in the Ruhr, but the French insist upon remaining in the form of "invisible occupation" until the reparations payments are started.

The continued delay in the sending of the British note is due to a desire to couch it in such terms as will induce France to enter into a united reply to Germany's reparations offer of last June.

Comte St. Aulaire, will go to Paris soon to confer with Premier Poincare on the reparations problem.

ATLANTA KLAN LOCAL REBELS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Atlanta, Ga., July 20.—Klansmen of Atlanta, (Nathan Bedford Forrest Klan Number 1) whose charter was suspended recently on the charge that the regular revenues were not paid into the treasury of the imperial palace, have made the divorce permanent and today were operating as an independent order. The action was taken in the local klan headquarters last night.

It was decided "at no time in the future to recognize, contribute to or in any manner affiliate with the national organization until such time it has been purged an different officials placed in control." The resolution accompanying the move further stated that the members of the original local klan "do hereby honestly and fearlessly enter our most stringent protest against the present regime in power and control of the national organization of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan and their henchmen and advise the Klansmen that they are being hoodwinked by a set of officials and hired men into permitting the pilfering of their treasury for illegal purposes, for personal, political purposes and for putting themselves in office and exploiting the fund and principles of the organization."

The resolution praised William J. Simmons, founder and emperor of the Klan.

MAUGHAN READY TO TRY AGAIN

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Rock Springs, Wyo., July 20.—Despite the fact he has twice failed to span the North American continent in a single day, with his high speed army airplane, Lieut. Russell L. Maughan today declared he is convinced he can succeed and will start the trip again just as soon as possible if officials at Washington will permit. He made this statement here today as he prepared to return east.

The daring flyer was forced down here late yesterday almost within reach of his goal—the flying field at San Francisco, when a leaking oil line endangered his motor. A hurried examination by experts at the local flying field made it certain the trip could not be continued.

There were rumors of sabotage to the plane used by Lieut. Maughan, but these were not generally credited, although it was known a code telegram of warning had been despatched to all landing fields on Maughan's route.

CAN'T THEY SPOIL THE COLLEGE GIRL?

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Portland, Ore., July 20.—"The American college woman is in danger of being spoiled by the attentions showered upon her by the world.

"She can't walk down the street, go hiking, put on a new gown or dance without knowing she is being closely watched, talked about and discussed from every angle.

"It is indeed a test of her poise and character if she retains her wholesomeness and womanliness when she is so much a part of the writings and conversation of the day."

These are the observations of Dr. Aurelia H. Reinhardt, first vice-president of the American Association of University Women and president of the Mills College of Oakland, Calif.

The day and age should be looked into carefully, rather than wasting so much time in wondering if the young people are measuring up to commonly accepted standards, Dr. Reinhardt advised.

"The past few years have been veritable living fires of emotion," she said. "Passions of mankind were stirred almost beyond belief. And the intense emotionalism of the war will show itself for a generation. It is reflected in manners, customs, dress, music, art—everything.

"Perhaps the modern girl is a little gay—a bit given to spooning and frivolities—in her atmosphere of jazz, she could hardly be otherwise. But the real worry will come if she ever loses her instinct to feel genuinely and truthfully.

"My candid opinion is that the American college girl is the salt of the earth. In the emergency or crisis she always triumphs with self sacrifice and devotion to high ideals."

SENATE HOUSE TO HAVE NEW ROOF

The Hon. John J. McNulty, superintendent of the Department of Public Buildings, with two of his assistants, visited Kingston on Thursday in compliance with Judge Clearwater's request and with him examined the old Senate House and arranged for a new roof for that venerable building. Mr. McNulty and his assistants unanimously agreed with the judge that a new roof immediately was imperative. In discussing its character the question arose as to whether the present rafters were sufficiently strong to support a red tile roof, which originally had been suggested, or whether the new roof should be of copper or some other fireproof substance. Judge Clearwater favored a dark red tile roof if it were permissible, as more in keeping with the building, and the period of its construction. The question will be determined by the state architect, who at Mr. McNulty's request will visit Kingston to examine the rafters.

The superintendent and his assistants were delighted with the Senate House collections, never having seen anything approaching them in interest. Specially were they pleased with the collection of spinning wheels, both wool and flax, the various reels and spinning apparatus for preparing wool and flax for spinning and weaving, among the collection at the Senate House being a loom upon which formerly was waven linen sheets and woolen blankets. The kitchen collection surprised them, in the number of the articles the uses for which they were designed, and their condition. It is admitted by antiquarians that the collection of butter bowls, spinning wheels, candle molds, lanterns and soapstone griddle stoves at the Senate House is the finest of any in this country.

The hollyhocks planted against the western wall of the Senate House by Mrs. Edward Coykendall make a brave show of bloom.

KEENEY'S THEATRE

Again TONIGHT and Saturday

Startlingly Beautiful

The very essence of romance—out there in the sunflecked, palm-decked isles of the Southern seas—the last outpost of romance.

The REX INGRAM Production
WHERE THE PAVEMENT ENDS

WITH

Ramon Novarro and Alice Terry

Where the pavement ends, there romance begins—and there is no pavement beneath the feet of life in the South Seas. It is all sunshine and danger and the slow, easy poison of lassitude; all lazy surf and white beach and green jungle.

It is the story of the young daughter of a trader. She was quite alone and young; and the tropic nights, so alive with the pulse of life, quickened her longing for love. Alice Terry is the girl, and Ramon Novarro the beachcomber who was the one to symbolize love to her.

75,000 TO SEE TENDLER TRY

Monday's Bout Receipts Will Be Half Million Dollars — Promoter Tells Why.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, July 20.—More than $500,000 will be paid by boxing enthusiasts to see the Benny Leonard-Lew Tendler championship bout next Monday night and Jimmy Johnston, promoter of the contest today told why fight fans will pay this amount.

"There will be three distinct classes of people who will help to make up this amount," the promoter explained. "First there will be the Leonard following and there is a veritable legion of Leonard admirers. They are fight-mad when the name of Leonard is mentioned. This following will be up to the fight strong.

"Then there is the crowd that always goes to a fight in the expectation of seeing a championship change hands. Reports have appeared from time to time that Leonard has retrogressed and is not the invincible fighter he once was. The element of chance plays a large part in sports. And thousands will view the contest upon the chance that Tendler will put one over and win the title.

"Third, there is that large crowd of lovers of boxing who will attend any fight which promises an exhibition of the manly art such as Leonard and Tendler no doubt will give. And there you are."

Fully seventy-five thousand are expected to view the fight. This will be the largest gathering of fans ever assembled to see a fight in New York state. Boyles Thirty Acres across the river in Jersey has played to larger houses, but no fight in this state, even the milk fund show, has played to a 75,000 crowd.

Tickets, Johnston said, are going extremely fast with the interest in the bout even greater than he had anticipated. The advance sale has already reach close to the $300,000 mark. He said the receipts would easily come to the half million mark.

Betting odds are 2 to 1 in favor of Leonard with bets of 1 to 2 being made that the champion knocks out the Philadelphian.

TWO "ALL STAR" TEAMS PLAY TO 14 INNING TIE

Thursday evening at Hasbrouck Park a miniature "World Series" game was witnessed when the Kelley All Stars and Dwyer All Stars played 14 innings to a 9 to 9 tie

The ninth inning found the Dwyer All Sars confident with a four run lead. But the Kelley All Stars found their batting eyes and the consequences were a bombardment of hits, a double two singles and a home run with two on by "Babe" Leonard that tied the score. This ended the scoring for both teams until the thirteenth inning when "Dutch" Carter made a bid for a home run with a terrific smash to right field but it was caught by the fielder playing that position.

The pitching of Hotaling was perfect from the ninth to the end in which period only sixteen batters faced him. Twelve of these were struck out. T. Cullen pitching for the "Dwyer All Sars," twirled airtight ball and saved his game by starting a double play in the fourteenth. Those who witnessed this game will always remember the "fiction" story of the ninth inning. Both teams put up an excellent game of ball and when they meet again in play it will prove a thriller.

Collision at Saugerties.

A Ford coupe and Maxwell coupe crashed at the Trinity Church corner, Saugerties, Thursday, and Officer Lavelle was called to untangle the snarl. Both parties said the other was to blame. The Ford was owned by Miss Mary Douglas of Pennsylvania, the Maxwell by Mr. Bray who recently purchased Mrs. Hines's property on Barclay Heights Saugerties. She was coming up the road and he was going down. The Ford was damaged and had to be taken to Snyder's Garage for repairs. The Maxwell proceeded on.
